"... and, like the Roman, I seem to see the River Tiber, foaming with much blood."

Enoch Powell, in April 1968

NOW WE HAVE
THIS ALL OVER
OUR COUNTRY

RACE RIOTS

They can't say they weren't warned, can they? The well-placed fanatics who have forced their multi-racial 'experiment' on Britain have reacted to 2001's Summer of Hate with shock and surprise. "We don't understand what's gone wrong," they whine as they search desperately for scapegoats, "no-one could have foreseen this."

What a lie! Enoch Powell summed it all up in a speech to local Tories in his Wolverhampton constituency back in 1968. He warned that allowing 50,000 immigrants every year into overcrowded Britain was like "heaping up our own funeral pyre" and described the policy as "mad, literally mad."

THE TIME IS NOW!

With racist stabbings and beatings happening every day in towns and cities all over the country, the multiracialists have got the "rivers of blood" that Enoch Powell and the British National Party warned about - and lakes of burning petrol into the bargain!

But don't expect them to say 'sorry' - either to Enoch Powell, or to the British National Party, or to you - for all their lies and for the way in which they've turned a stable, all-white nation into a cauldron of racial conflict. The people who created this mess will never admit they got it wrong, still less set about reversing the damage they've caused.

In fact, their response to all the trouble is to call for even more immigration, and to demand a policy of forced integration to make all us ignorant peasants mix and learn to love each other. And mass immigration and forced integration is exactly what we'll get - until we find enough people like you being willing to get involved and help the BNP contest and win more and more council seats.

The answer to anti-white racist violence and to anti-British discrimination by local and national government is not confrontation or silly extremism. It's to organise peacefully and politically to put pro-white councillors into town and city halls, and to use the credibility this brings to go on to win regional, European and national elections in the years ahead.

That's what the British National Party is here to do and, with your help, we're going to do it sooner rather than later. It's no good just nodding your head in agreement, or 'tut-tutting' at the latest anti-white riot or government stupidity.

There's not enough time left to stand and watch, it's time to get involved and help us to out things right.

ENOCH POWELL WAS RIGHT!

He spoke of how an old lady had complained after being racially abused by young immigrants in her street, and warned that their numbers would have grown to such an extent by the year 2000 that Britain would be riven by serious racial tension and even violence.

The entire Establishment united to attack Powell, with the media dubbing his warning the "Rivers of Blood" speech. They said it was 'alarmist', claimed that the old lady and anti-white racism didn't exist, and told everyone that the multiracial 'experiment' was guaranteed to work.

With the retirement and later death of Enoch Powell, the British National Party took up the position of being the most effective warning voice over the dangers posed by mass immigration and multiculturalism. And, of course, we've been attacked as fiercely as Enoch Powell by the same multiracialists in the BBC, the press and the old political parties.

But now, after Oldham, Leeds, Burnley, Bradford - and all the other places that have seen anti-white violence by out-of-control Muslim youth or are on the brink of going off in the same terrible way - there can be no doubt about who was wrong and who was right. The left-liberals in their

"TONY'S PEOPLE" - LABOUR COUNCILLOR JAILED FOR SEX ABUSE

A top Labour councillor in Tony Blair's Sedgefield constituency has been jailed for 15 years for sexually abusing three 14-year-old boys.

Martyn Locklin, 41, of Newton Aycliffe, bribed them with cannabis, alcohol and money, Teesside Crown Court heard. He was convicted of eight sexual offences and cleared of one. Labour pervert Locklin featured not so long ago on a TV documentary entitled "Tony's People," in which he was shown taking Blair around facilities for children in Sedgefield. Talk about putting a fox in charge of the hen-coop!

Locklin, of course, is by no means the only person in the Labour party with a history of paedophilia. There are, of course, more senior Labour politicians involved in serious child sexual abuse including a high-ranking East Midlands MP (now retired) and a key figure in the Cabinet.

Only the thick dossier that Labour spin doctors have on top ranking Tory and Lib-Dem perverts stops the 'opposition' parties from unleashing a scandal that goes from public toilets in Scotland and Central London to children's homes in Leicester and Hackney. If the truth came out it would destroy the Government, but the deterrent threat of what military theorists talking about nuclear bombs call Mutually Assured Destruction means that it will be some time yet before the other sex cases among "Tony's People" end up in the same prison 'beasts wing' as the revolting Martyn Locklin.

HOMELESS IN STAFFORD: BRITAIN'S SHAME!

Many people from abroad look to our fair isles as an example of civilisation and relative prosperity. However, one does not peer too far down into the subterranean levels of our society to find a very different picture.

Stafford, an affluent county town in the middle of England, people go about their everyday business, working, shopping, drinking with friends.

Yet amidst this apparent normality two men are slowly wasting away to death in a stable.

In a scene that would not have been out of place in Dickensian Britain, Dave and John live in absolute squalor, sharing their accommodation with rubbish, disease, lice and rats.

Whilst newly arrived asylum seekers can look forward to such novelties as microwave ovens and televisions, Dave and John can also look forward to new experiences; septicaemia, scabies, hepatitis and hypothermia.

It is a sad reality that we have sunk to Third World standards, where people have become not just oblivious but totally immune to seeing their fellow Britons existing at levels of subhumanity.

Dave and John, who are forced to live in conditions of squalor

The perverse liberal logic is quite at ease completely writing off their own people whilst infatuating themselves with the plight of those from Albania and Afghanistan for instance.

It is estimated that 415,000 people are deemed to be homeless in England and on any one night between one to two thousand people are sleeping on the streets. In Scotland it is estimated that 11,000 people a year have to sleep rough.

It is a shocking fact that nearly one quarter of those sleeping rough in Britain are former members of our armed forces.

Surely, those prepared to serve and even die for their country and countrymen are entitled to a better life than this?

Beneath the nationalist/internationalist argument one must ask, did the grandfathers of the likes of Dave and John fight to establish Britain as an economic migrants' adventure theme park or did they go to war for the dignity and safety that their grandchildren deserve? The thousands of British people having to sleep rough on our streets provide not only an obvious answer to the above question, but are also living monuments to the sheer injustice and hypocritical cruelty of the liberals' world.

BNP LAUNCHES CAMPAIGN AGAINST LIBRARY CENSORSHIP!

Birmingham City Council has been notorious for treating white people as second-class citizens for years.

But, up until now, no one has ever challenged the council on its politically correct decisions in a court of law.

But that may be about to change! Birmingham City Council has for some time been employing blocking software in its libraries in order to deny access to the British National Party website.

This use of council tax money to purchase computer software in order to stifle free speech is a very serious matter.

Our legal advisors believe that this censorship is illegal not just under the 1964 Libraries Act, but also under the 1998 European Convention on Human Rights.

BNP West Midlands regional organiser Simon Darby has therefore given John Dolan, Director of Libraries in the city, fourteen days to remove the undemocratic block on the party website or face court action.

MUSLIMS AND BNP JOINTLY CALL FOR CALM IN OLDHAM

While New Labour's Minister for Oldham Angela Eagle is 'winding up' the majority community in the town by meeting twenty Asian community leaders but not a single white one, the BNP is taking active steps to calm things down.

British National Party chairman Nick Griffin and Oldham Muslim leader Shoukat Khawaja have already been in touch over the telephone, following a suggestion by Mr. Khawaja that it would be a good thing to meet.

Mr. Griffin responded by telling local journalists that he agreed with one-time Oldham MP Sir Winston Churchill that "jaw, jaw is better than war, war," and that he would be happy to discuss the town's problems and explain the fears of white residents to Mr. Khawaja.

The two community leaders

Minister for Oldham

have now agreed to meet and, in the meantime, to issue a joint statement calling for calm in the town, which remains very tense following rioting and a number of racial incidents.

Mr. Khawaja has said that he is happy to put his name to a statement calling on young Muslims to respect their white neighbours' traditions and way of life and to refrain from any further attacks on pubs.

Mr. Griffin in turn has said that, in response to such a welcome gesture, the BNP would urge white Oldham residents to stop their boycott of Muslim-owned businesses.

A significant number of local people have been avoiding these since the party called for a boycott in order to persuade Muslim businessmen to pressure their community and leaders to bring the minority of young thugs in their midst under control.

THE BNP AND IMMIGRATION

The BNP is best known for its policy on immigration. The BNP opposes immigration into the UK because according to Britain's leading population experts, the native British people will be a minority in this country in just a few short decades.

To avoid this, we will halt all further immigration and asylum seeking, and introduce a system of voluntary resettlement whereby immigrants resident in Britain will be encouraged, but not forced, to return to their lands of native origin.

Should they choose to return home, the government would provide all the necessary funds, and should some choose to stay, they can, and will be provided the full protection of the law.

The British National Party is opposed to 'multiculturalism', and the massive conflict and hatred it causes.

We feel that all forms of life on this planet are sacred and should be preserved, but the BNP specifically wishes to preserve those ethnic differences which make up the rich tapestry of mankind. We oppose those who are determined to destroy all cultures and all races to achieve a multi-racial mish-mash. We believe firmly in ethnic and national identity.

To protect and preserve the ethnic and cultural integrity of the British people — and of others too, the party believes that all races and peoples have a right to a homeland.

All peoples need a homeland. The British too need a homeland. Yet very soon we will lose ours, because we cannot bring ourselves to say 'no' to immigration. In short, Britain is being colonised.

The British people were never given the chance to vote on whether they wanted Britain to become a 'multicultural' society. It was forced on us by the politicians against the clear wishes of the people.

To sum up, the British National Party is fighting for the very right to exist of not just the British people, but of all peoples and cultures around the world against those who seek to destroy all forms of identity.

ANOTHER SLAP IN THE FACE FOR JUSTICE

The decision to free the teenaged killers of Jamie Bulger marked a new level of depravity and arrogance by Britain's ruling left-liberal 'elite'.

Depraved, because that's the only word that can possibly be used to describe the way in which little Jamie's killers have been — and continue to be — pampered at enormous public expense by way of reward for their subhuman murder.

And arrogance, because only a Government which doesn't give a damn about the wishes of the overwhelming majority of its subjects would dare to push through such an outrageous and unpopular decision.

Apart from sympathising with Jamie's parents, all that While Steve Thoburn, the "Metric Martyr" from the North East is prosecuted for using traditional British measurements, the killers of James Bulger are released!

decent people can do to put things right is to make up their minds to help to replace politicians who regard us all as mere subjects with a new political movement which sees people as citizens.

Britain needs a new party, one prepared to implement the popular will rather than ride roughshod over the wishes of the majority in pursuit of liberal dogma and one that will bring sanity and justice back to the people of these islands.

POWER TO THE PEOPLE - RICH ENOUGH TO BUY IT!

Media mogul Rupert Murdoch

Multi-millionaire press baron Rupert Murdoch surprised some Tories just before the election by making it clear that his media empire, principally the Times and the Sun, would be backing New Labour, despite being hostile to Blair's plans to scrap the Pound.

But now the election is over, the reason for Murdoch's

'strange' decision has become clear.

The re-elected Labour Government is proposing changes to the law which will relax the rules against media monopolies still further. So, in exchange for a few kind words in his powerful papers in the last weeks of the election campaign, Murdoch is being given a licence to make even bigger profits and to further tighten his grip on public opinion forming in Britain.

Nothing could better illustrate the way in which the old party politicians are in the pockets of the super-rich.

And nothing could make a better case for radical moves to democratise the media.

Who do you think should decide who gets elected to run our country? Press barons or the British people? Tony Blair has already made up his mind.

SOFT ON DRUGS

One day in July, the nation opened its daily newspapers to find that the entire political Establishment had turned into a giant 'Legalise Cannabis' campaign overnight.

Labour Ministers were queuing up to call for legalisation, senior police officers were announcing that people found with small quantities of the drug in their possession would no longer be prosecuted, and the front-runners in the Tory leadership race were falling over themselves to urge 'decriminalisation.'

The new, 'inclusive' Conservative party, it seems, isn't just going to be openly pro-'Gay' rights and opposed to 'racism', it's also going to spend its time chilling out with a giant spliff. Nor is it just the Tories' left-wing which has decided to go for the druggie vote, 'right-wing hardliners' such as Peter Lilley also want to legalise dope, thus making it very clear that new-fangled libertarian Conservatism is a very different beast to the traditionally-minded party that the ageing rank-and-file still want to see.

But while the old party politicians have been rushing to speak out for legalisation, Britain's leading brain scientist, Oxford Professor of Pharmacology Susan Greenfield, has warned that cannabis is seriously dangerous and should remain banned.

Prof. Greenfield bases her case on anti-cannabis facts such as these:

● Legalisation was first tried in Holland in 1976. Since then, Holland has become the drugs capital of Europe, with the highest use of Ecstasy and a trebling of the number of heroin addicts. The concentrations of tar, carbon monoxide and cancer-causing agents in a joint are at least double those in ordinary cigarette smoke.

● The average adult needs 7,000 milligrams of alcohol before it has an effect on the mind. For cannabis the figure is just 0.3 milligrams. As a result cannabis affects skills such as driving for a full 24 hours.

● Cannabis is addictive. Research published in the British Medical Cannabis damages health should not be legalised

Journal shows that at least 10 per cent of cannabis users are unable to kick the habit.

● Cannabis use causes shrinkage and death of brain cells, leading to impaired memory and the loss of co-ordination. One effect of this is demotivation — the typical 'druggie' state where users can't be bothered to do anything to make their own lives, or society in general, any better.

Now that's a strange coincidence, isn't it? The masters of a massively unpopular, failing political system want to legalise a drug that deprives people of the motivation to do anything to make their world a better place. How convenient!

THE MAD AXEMAN - BLAIR SLASHING OUR SERVICES!

With the election safely out of the way, Blair & Co are getting down to the real business of their "historic second term" - dismantling and privatising what the Tories and four years of New Labour have left of the welfare state.

The biggest target is, of course, the Health Service. It is true that this in need of reform - principally the scrapping of layers of tax-eating bureaucracy and the breaking of the obscenely expensive drugs monopoly of the pharmaceutical giants - but it is also a matter of commonsense and simple economics that it is neither possible nor moral to make money out of preserving the nation's health.

And yet that is exactly what Blair is planning to try to do. Despite the terrible example provided by the privatisation of British Rail, the NHS is next on the hit-list.

But it is not alone. Also due for completion is a rolling programme aimed at selling off - even giving away - every last council house in Britain. Not to the families who live in them, which is a policy which - with due safeguards to ensure that fresh houses could still be built for local needs - might make some sense. No, under Mr. Tony Blair, council house tenants are being pushed into the pockets of private landlords disguised as housing associations.

All these changes are presented as ideas dreamed up by a 'radical', 'reforming' Labour Government. But the reality is very different. The last Tory Government may have sold off the family silver, but New Labour are selling the slates off the national roof. Why, when the people who will suffer most when the rain gets in will be the poor, the elderly and young children?

The truth is that this betrayal has nothing to do with 'radical' ideas from a government in charge of its own policies, and everything to do with rules imposed by the World Trade Organisation (WTO).

This is the successor to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, which set out to 'liberalise' world trade. All the old parties are fully in favour of Britain having signed up to the WTO, despite the fact that the small print of its huge rule book forbids national governments to do anything which might 'distort' free trade - including running social services for their own citizens.

This is the real reason for New Labour's privatisation mania, although the opportunity for people "in the know" to make a quick killing in the Stock Market plays a role too.

Municipal services such as water, lighting and libraries were the products of the work of visionary paternalistic Conservatives in late Victorian times. A generation later, equally visionary Labour politicians - often self-taught men with a burning desire to lift their people from misery and exploitation - created the council housing system. Not long after came the National Health Service.

Of course, there were aspects of all these institutions that were far from perfect, but they should have been reformed, not smashed up with a sledgehammer labelled 'Privatisation.' But that is what Tony Blair is doing, and he's doing it because that's what the globalists at the World Trade Organisation demand.

Which is why, however many doctors take safe Labour seats in protests about hospital closures like the one in Kidderminster, Blair will keep wielding the axe. Labour, Tory or Lib-Dem, they all support globalism and the World Trade Organisation, so they'll all keep cutting our services, until we kick them out of office!

UNIVERSITY CHALLENGE

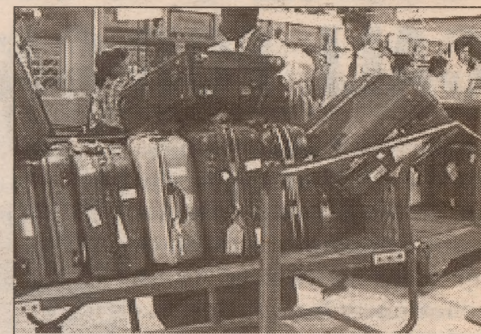

British universities are being used in an illegal immigration scam that has been going on for at least four years.

Most British universities have agents in a number of foreign countries who set up the paperwork and make visa arrangements for students who are given places to study here. The USA sends the largest number of foreign students, followed by China.

Naturally, it is not unusual for some students not to take up their places, but the University of Derby recently found that the drop-out rate for Chinese students is far higher than expected. Out of 260 students due from China, 200 failed to turn up at the start of their first academic year.

Alerted by this, the university started making further checks. These revealed that the colleges at which the applicants claimed to have qualified for university largely did not exist, and that all their qualifications were bogus.

Nevertheless, it emerged that all the missing 'students' had used their falsely obtained university placement notices to get through British Customs. In other words, they are now here as illegal immigrants!

Alerted by this, other universities ran similar checks and found that the problem is widespread, and has been going on for four years. The total number of illegal immigrants involved has not, however, been released, and the disgraceful situation has not been reported in any mainstream newspaper.

Why is the Government wasting money like this at a time when our hospitals are short of beds and nurses, and while our pensioners have to scrimp and save?

"Opponents of the death penalty argue that it is wrong for the state to take life. This is a line that Tony Blair takes. Yet, to be consistent, holders of this view would also have to be against the state taking life during war.

"As Aldous Huxley once wrote, 'it is impossible to be an 85% pacifist; it is all or nothing.' It is interesting in this context to think back to 1999 war against Yugoslavia.

"Then, by and large, the most enthusiastic supporters of the NATO bombing campaign on Belgrade were those politicians and journalists (such as Tony Blair, Robin Cook, Clare Short and the Guardian duo Polly Toynbee and Martin Woollacott) who are fierce in their opposition to any reintroduction of the death penalty in Britain.

"It seems to me like a rather strange morality that justifies the killing of innocent make-up girls and cleaners in a Yugoslav television studio, but not of convicted serial killers at home."

Neil Clark, The Spectator

"Once again, bloody mayhem erupts in the Balkans. And once again British troops seem likely to be sent into danger - disgracefully, without even the suggestion of a parliamentary debate.

Leader article, Daily Mail

"Hot on the heels of those massive pay increases for Ministers and MPs, the begging bowl goes around again. What do they want now?

"Another 20,000 in office expenses, for a start. At present, MPs can claim up to £52,000 for their offices and staff - on top of free megabucks luxury offices in Westminster.

"Yet the House of Commons has never been such a lifeless, degenerate, intellectual slum, nor been so inefficient in controlling an arrogant and incompetent Government.

"Now Parliament is to be treated like the NHS - throw money at it and call it 'investment'; give it spin and call it reform. It will not work. We have

Norman Tebbit, The Mail on Sunday

"...in Glasgow, police are hunting a gang of Albanian asylum-seekers in connection with the stabbing of four night-club bouncers.

Richard Littlejohn, The Sun

LOWEST OF THE LOW

You know, by this stage of the game, we should never be surprised by the sheer depth of meanness and stupidity displayed by contemporary government.

Still the recent announcement by our Treasury chappie Alistair Darling - a bloke with all the charm of a depressive undertaker - of new MOT style tests for the disabled was pretty shocking, even by recent New Labour standards.

The sick will be penalised and forced to act like little performing dogs before system-appointed doctors, who will themselves be pressurised to pass as many people possible as fit for work.

That the disabled have little prospect of work doesn't bother the pimps of capitalism who occupy the front benches.

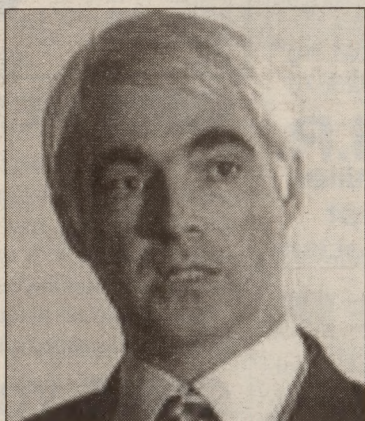

Such tests will, of course, penalise honest and decent people before the tricksters who know how to manipulate the system. But all the cheeseparers really want to do is shift the sick onto a low rate of benefit as they're turned into 'jobseekers', under the responsibility of the 'Ministry of Work'.

George Orwell should have been alive today to witness this!

With sheer arrogance, this cut-back was announced just as MPs awarded themselves a £4000 per year increase.

This increase is a hundredfold times greater than what was given to the pensioners. When it comes to belt-tightening, the parliamentarians' response is: Count us out!

Reading books like Nick Davies' shocking study of poverty and deprivation, Dark Heart, you discover that

Alistair Darling, Minister for Work and Pensions

Thatcher, Blair and Co have set us back 150 years in terms of social deprivation.

Now, I don't want to worry you - but actually the situation's worse than that!

Every month, a larger and larger trade gap is reported. This yawning black hole, caused by orthodox finance, is one of reasons why the minions of New Labour insist on attacking the pensioners and sick.

Sooner than take on the City...These unfortunates must suffer for the crimes and misdemeanours of a political class which is taking us back, in economic terms, to before the days when the ancient Cornish exported tin to the Phoenicians.

Few times in history has there been a political class so incompetent and ready to accept failure, truly the lowest of the low. They're only of use for photo opportunities.

With that in mind, Freedom an idea for a great photo opportunity for Mr. Blair: how about coming along to Bradford to deliver a nice little speech at Manningham Labour Club on the undoubted benefits and blessings of multi-culturalism and "Diversity"!

TORIES SWEATING IN OLDHAM

Local Tories in Oldham are holding their breath and hoping that a financial scandal involving a company which ripped off job seekers in Bristol won't dent their flagging electoral fortunes in the town even further.

Perhaps they'll be more careful about who they pick as general election candidates in future, but that won't get them out of this particular hole once Oldham British National Party get the full details and our local printing facility starts churning out leaflets about it!

Both Tory candidates in Oldham lost a spectacular number of votes to the BNP after announcing that they were 'comfortable' with the multiracial society. Now it looks as if their increasingly irrelevant party's electoral slide will continue at the council elections next year.

TROUBLE BREWING IN EAST LONDON

Sympathetic police officers in Tower Hamlets have told Freedom that their superiors are 'terrified' of the prospect of major disturbances in the Bengladeshi areas of East London.

The population there is so huge that a serious race riot in the borough would probably overwhelm the entire Metropolitan police. Senior officers have therefore given orders to beat cops to do everything possible to avoid confrontations that could spark trouble.

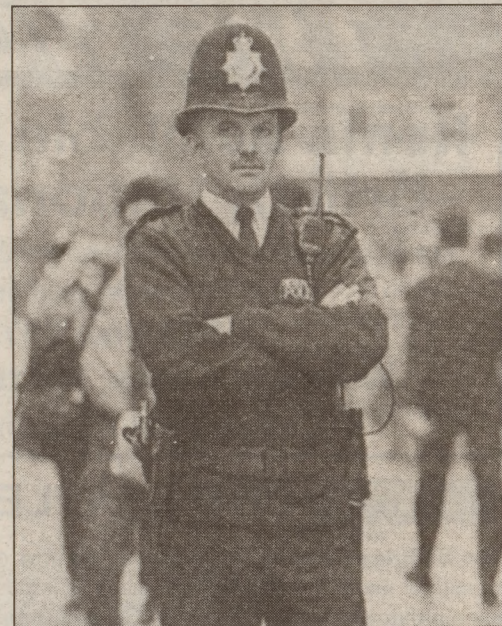

Typical of the results of this policy was an incident last week, when a local resident called the police to say that two young Asians were smoking heroin in a car outside her house. She was told that no police units were free to deal with the incident for at least an hour. But their attitude changed immediately when she gave the address and they realised that a BNP activist was making the complaint. A police riot van arrived within a matter of minutes and carted the stoned Asians away. Clearly those in charge felt that this was less likely to cause trouble than a possible argument between law-abiding BNP residents and a couple of Asian junkies.

In another incident, in Stepney last week, a police car was ambushed by youths with a scaffolding poll. When the two officers involved got out of the car, they found that a mob of 60 gathered within seconds. Told on their radios that no back up could be provided, they had to leg it up the road, leaving the cheering crowd to dismantle their car at leisure!

If the flat cap careerists in charge in East London really think that they can avoid long-term trouble by such craven displays of cowardice and surrender, then their rank-and-file officers and the communities they are supposed to protect have even bigger problems than anyone yet realises.

Police in East London are worried about race riots

The ordinary copper who spoke to Freedom is in no doubt as to what is going to happen: "East London will go up this summer, it's just a question of when. And the more we've let them get away with things, the worse it will be when we finally have to make a stand."

ISLAMIC FUNDAMENTALISM THREATENS THE WEST

The threat of Islamic fundamentalist terrorism is one of the most pressing security issues facing Western intelligence agencies. Funded with Middle East oil money, and the profits of international arms dealing and the drugs trade. The rise of the radical Islamic movement over the last decade has been phenomenal.

From China to Africa the armies of militant Islam are once again growing and spreading right across the globe. Wherever it has sprung up it has left the country in poverty and ruination.

In the infernal crucible of civil war and religious conflict the legions of Islam have consolidated their hold on power and exported Islamic terrorism world-wide.

Most of the major European cities that have large Islamic communities have experienced Islamic terrorism already. Russia has seen a religious war break out in Chechnya that has led to the death of thousands of young Russian conscripts. The four Islamic fundamentalism is a growing problem for the West

British telecommunication engineers Peter Kennedy, Stanley Shaw, Darren Hickey and Rudolf Petschi, who were murdered by Islamic terrorists in Chechnya, were casualties of this war.

Though the warlord Arbi Barayev was killed by Russian special forces troops in June 2001, the war in Chechnya is dragging on.

A recent video produced by Osama Bin Laden demanding that Moslems resident in the West rise up and take the Jihad to Europe and America has revealed the determination of the terrorists to bomb the West.

The threat is so real that during the G8 summit on July 20-22 2001 the leaders of the world's most powerful countries will be protected inside the conference buildings by groups of Italian soldiers armed with shoulder launched missiles to shoot down any suicide bombers in planes, after a tip off by the Russian security forces that an Chechnyan suicide death squad are planning to bomb it.

Closer to home, we have seen

Muslim cleric Abu Hamsa caught by an undercover Channel Four documentary inciting young Muslims to take up martial arts and attack Unbelievers in the street. His bloodthirsty comments were made while preaching in a mosque, but not only was he not prosecuted for incitement to racial hatred, he was not condemned by other Muslims either.

Two of Hamsa's sons were among a group of young Moslems from Britain who were arrested in the Yemen for terrorism. Funds are being raised in Moslem communities for illegal terrorist groups. White, black and Hindu families are being ethnically cleansed from their homes by Moslem terror campaigns. And, of course, there are widespread, though unconfirmed, reports that a number of the recent riots in Northern towns have been incited or organised within local mosques.

It would clearly be unfair to tar all Moslems with the violent fundamentalist brush, but that doesn't make the threat posed by the extremists any less real. Moderate Moslems have a duty to speak out against the fanatics in their midst, and the Government has a duty to take action to show them they are not welcome in our country.

RESOURCE AND ARCHIVE SECTION

With the British National Party moving further and further into the mainstream, the party needs to keep a file of newspaper stories so as to be able to maintain data files on subjects like the EU, crime, immigration, the economy etc. along with quotable quotes to buttress BNP arguments on any given subject.

Accordingly, the party is appealing for readers of daily newspapers, particularly those who have an interest in taking cuttings or have an interest in one specialist subject to write in to say which paper it is that they take and or say which specialist subject it is that they feel most interested in.

The party has already identified a Head of Archive who will co-ordinate this project. What is needed are the volunteers - who can be in any part of the country - who will undertake to monitor the various papers needed for this project.

All interested please write in to 'Archive' PO Box 1032, Woodford Green, Essex IG8 9GN

WHEN A PAIR OF PRETTY LEGS CAN SPARK A RIOT IT'S TIME TO GET REAL!

A shampoo advert using a picture of a pretty girl with long legs exposed by the fact that her dress is caught in her knickers (illustrating the idea of "a bad hair day") has been banned from buses in Bradford and Leicester.

The reason, according to the local authorities, is that her shapely 36" pins might distract drivers and cause accidents. The real reason, of course, is that such images cause a great deal of anger among Muslims. In Bradfordistan (as bitter locals now call their once fine city) we've already seen what that can mean, while police in Leicester have been on full alert for trouble over several weekends.

Given the threat of further rioting, it is arguably a legitimate policing decision to censor such an advert, but it is wholly wrong to hide the real reason for the move behind nonsense about not distracting drivers. It's time for a bit of honesty from the authorities. The multiracial 'experiment' has failed. The sooner everyone faces up to that fact, the sooner we can have a sensible, mature debate about what to do about it.

TRADE UNION REVEALS STALINIST CREDENTIALS

Last month, the Communication Workers Union voted at Conference to lobby the Government to ban the British National Party!

The ban vote came in the wake of the party's excellent showing in the General Election, particularly in Oldham and was proposed by the Oldham branch of the CWU because the communist officials running that union are opposed to the British National Party. The CWU comrades' vote establishes the CWU as one of the foremost unions in the UK committed to oppression and the denial of basic human rights such as freedom of thought, freedom of expression, freedom of association and freedom of speech.

Communist regimes established prison camps for millions of people for 'crimes' such as disagreeing with the local communist official (subverting the state) or for voicing concerns as to the loss of traditional values (Counter revolutionary activity). Altogether more than 90 million people were killed by the communists in their death camps. The heirs of Stalin, Mao and Pol Pot are alive and well within Britain's trade union movement!

Commenting on the shameful decision by the CWU to call for a ban on those it doesn't like, BNP Press Officer Jack Freeson said: "The BNP is a growing democratic party speaking up for an increasing number of ordinary Britons. It's wrong to try and ban those with whom you disagree, the CWU should be ashamed of themselves. I have today made enquiries to see whether the CWU call is in breach of the European Human Rights Act of 1998. If it is, the British National Party should be compensated for the outrageous attempted denial of its democratic rights."

Letters

Write to: The Editor, Voice of Freedom, PO Box 1032, Woodford Green, IG8 9GN

Dear Sir - I am writing to congratulate Mr Griffin and the other candidates in Oldham for getting nearly 12,000 votes in the general election.

Well done also to all the other candidates around the country for doing so well and all the hard work put in.

Margaret Stones
E12

Dear Sir - When the Lib-Dems and Plaid Cymru came to my door during the recent election, I went into the street, crumpled the leaflet without looking at it and told them in no uncertain terms that my support would not be forthcoming.

This being entirely due to my innate hostility regarding politicians, all of whom I have long thought of as self serving and completely unaware of their duty as servants of the public.

But I had a bit of a think, and realised that, apart from the hysteria that your party generates in the media, I know nothing of the BNP.

After considering my reaction, I have just viewed your website and I must say, I am impressed by the apparent conviction therein! I would say that 90% of what is written expresses my views more eloquently than I could.

I feel sure that the BNP is the party that can stop a lot of this rot.

My parents live next door to a convicted paedophile and rather than stay under his rock, he regularly torments my parents?

My mother is on anti-depressants after five years of harassment.

My parents are honest people who work hard for all they earn, but this grubby little man takes for nothing as much as I earn in a year.

I offer my support to a party that while not perfect will not stab the likes of my parents and the beleaguered industrial workers of South Wales in the back.

Leighton Barrett South Wales

Sir: I went to a BNP meeting in Bradford last week. It was a real eye-opener to see a political party that understands the problems we face, and says what everyone is already thinking. I'm sure that your message is going to get you a lot of support in Bradford, and also around the country.

My eyes have also been opened by the actions of the riot police. We always knew that the police take the Muslim side whenever there's trouble, but I didn't expect them to keep on doing this even when they've been bricked, petrol-bombed and had crossbows fired at them.

But the police are now more biased than ever!

They refused to use tear gas or plastic bullets against the rioters, but beat and tear-gassed a group of whites sitting peacefully in a pub the other evening.

When white lads have come out onto their own streets after more stabbings and beatings of our people, it's been us who've been beaten with riot truncheons, while Muslim thugs waving petrol bombs out of car windows have been allowed to drive off.

I think they're trying to make us riot so that the Asians don't look so bad after all.

James R.
Bradford

AC CONFERENCE SETS OUT PARTY PLANS!

The BNP's Advisory Council and key officials debate various issues

The British National Party held a key leadership meeting at the end of last month.

A two day affair, the assembled leadership of the party plus a number of younger members comprising part of the second tier of the party's management structure heard an outline of the tense racial situation that exists in many Northern towns.

This situation was then looked at in detail and decisions reached concerning future party development and election strategy.

The council elections next year were also discussed. All present debated the strategy and the preparation work needed in order to win seats.

Target areas were identified, and a consensus that a large amount of work has got to be done to secure those campaigns this summer. The first full day, ending at 7.30pm, was topped by a very enjoyable social evening where BNP Organisers could chat about events within the party and about their own respective areas.

Sunday began with a discussion on the coming Euro Referendum.

This included a debate on whether the party should participate in the coming referendum on the Euro, or stay clear or run a low-key campaign.

The meeting was persuaded that the party ought to participate on a large-scale whenever the referendum is held, as a means of positioning ourselves even further as the only serious force dedicated to preserving the Pound and bringing back British sovereignty from Brussels.

The increasing success of the party and the attendant increase in attention from journalists was also discussed along with some alarming possibilities with regard to BNP computer security.

As a result, an immediate security upgrade to all essential computers was ordered to achieve parity with commercial organisations that face the same security issues.

Sunday also saw a formal Advisory Council meeting which discussed various financial matters.

At the meeting, this year's Red-White-and-Blue summer festival was discussed and it was agreed that it would go ahead as planned, and that a full-scale planning weekend would be held by key officials at the end of the month.

All-in-all, the weekend carved out plans for the future and identified the fresh challenges ahead. As a result the BNP is sharpening its focus on the important task of building the party with the aim of becoming an elected force next year!

BNP SETS UP ETHNIC LIASON COMMITTEE

The British National Party has launched an Ethnic Liaison Committee. This is intended to organise publicity activity with non-whites who have expressed favourable sentiment towards the BNP - all designed to break down the media image of the BNP as 'racists.'

Virtually all of the non-whites concerned have been very understanding when we have explained that, at a time when they can have Black Police Officers' Associations, Asian This and West Indian that, the overwhelming majority of BNP members, although not hostile to non-whites, believe that the natives of our islands are entitled to one organisation that is there for us, and us alone.

Lawrence Rustem, member for over 10 years, is to head the new group

The kind of publicity activities the new group would pioneer. Here BNP members can be seen demonstrating with a black family against the refusal of the government to help them return to their homeland.

That institution, of course, is the British National Party, and we have no plans whatsoever to change the section of the party constitution under which membership is open only to persons wholly of British or kindred European descent. They can be "friends, not family" and we can have "co-operation, not membership."

The Ethnic Liaison Committee will consist of non-whites who share the BNP's view that the liberal elite's drive to destroy both white and black culture and ethnic identity to create a rootless global workforce must be stopped.

The founding head of this new body is Lawrence Rustem. Lawrence is well known to London BNP activists in particular as a tireless party worker.

Less well known is that Lawrence, who is half-Turkish, was allowed by the then leadership to join the party as a one-off exception to the "British descent only" rule back in 1991, in recognition of his invaluable work for the party.

This exception is going to continue, not least because it ensures that the Ethnic Liaison Committee is headed by a BNP member and will thus remain under BNP control.

Other members of the ELC, however, will join that body, but will not be eligible to join the British National Party.

For practical purposes we will class it as another BNP circle (i.e. a separate, but satellite organisation), but in fact it will differ from other circles in that it will not be aiming to turn its supporters into party members!

The main purpose of this group is to mobilise the growing number of black and Asian supporters of the BNP to organise publicity geared activities such as the demonstration in 1996 where British National Party members demonstrated outside the Home Office with a black family because of the refusal by the government to help the family return to the West Indies.

Such events show that the BNP is serious when it states that "it isn't a matter of hate", and that the party's views are based on a sincere desire to preserve British culture, and hand in hand with that, the cultures of other peoples as well!

It is not expected that the ELC will be a large affair, but we expect it to have an impact out of all proportion to its size.

There's a big 'shock' value for left-liberal journalists in seeing the British National Party actively seeking to co-operate with decent non-whites who understand the fears of so many native Britons about being over-run, and who share our rejection of the damage caused by liberal social policies designed to destroy culture on both sides of the fence.

Readers from our (small) number of ethnic minority audience who are interested in finding out more should contact 01322 525597

In brief...

● The BNP's North West region have shown the way and purchased a new digital duplicator that has the capacity to produce a thousand leaflets in five minutes. This purchase is already making a big difference to the party's response time on local issues. It is hoped that other regions will follow suit, as the ability to produce cheap local leaflets - and quickly - is one of the keys to effective community politics.

● As part of the drive towards greater organisational professionalism and financial accountability the BNP now has a remunerations committee to decide the wages paid to the party's full time employees. The committee has been set up at the recent Advisory Council meeting and comprises: Chairman of the committee Scott McLean, East Midlands Regional organiser Steve Belshaw, and National Press Officer Phil Edwards.

● BNP calling cards are now back in stock, together with a new card advertising FAIR - our white victims' support group. You can join fellow BNP supporters all over the country who make a point of putting a few of these out every single day. Why not send for some today? £5 for 400, incl p&p, from PO Box 287, Waltham Cross, Herts, EN8 8ZU. Please state whether you require FAIR or BNP cards.

5% IN LEICESTER BY-ELECTION

Last month also saw a snap council by-election in Leicester. Candidate Clive Potter, backed by a new canvassing team obtained just under 5% in the Thurncourt Ward.

The whole campaign was used as a canvassing training exercise, with activists coming from the North East, West Midlands and London all taking part.

A well done must go to candidate Clive Potter who worked tirelessly during the campaign. The BNP now has more trained canvassers than ever before, but more are still needed. It's nothing like as difficult as it sounds, and new volunteers are always welcome.

EXCELLENT BEXLEY MEETING

The first post-election meeting in Bexley saw 50 people cram in to hear the increasingly popular Kent BNP speaker Lee Barnes, South East London candidates, and main speaker Paul Golding.

The meeting was chaired by local organiser James Seadon, who started the meeting off by introducing the party's two general election candidates in the region, Barry Roberts who stood in Lewisham, and Colin Smith who stood in Bexleyheath & Crayford. Both gave campaign reports.

They were followed by local activist Lawrence Rustem, who gave a short talk urging people not to miss the forthcoming Red-White-and-Blue festival.

Lee Barnes gave an impassioned speech about the situation in Britain.

After a break and collection,

Lewisham East candidate Barry Roberts

Director of Publicity Paul Golding gave a hearty speech on the election, and the four key dangers of immigration, Europe, crime and economic decline in Britain. The collection raised more than £300.

GOLDING IN BOLTON

After his attendance in Oldham during the day, Director of Publicity Paul Golding made his way to nearby Bolton to speak at the second BNP meeting held in the area that day.

Local organiser, Ian Hague, chaired the meeting, which was attended by 25 people – a marked increase on previous turnouts. After a brief round up, he introduced North West activist Pete Rushton.

Pete gave a talk on the situation brewing in the region, and the huge potential for the party locally.

After a short break and a collection that raised money for local funds, Ian introduced Mr. Golding who gave a brief analysis of the election results,

100 PEOPLE AT BRADFORD MEETING

Bradford BNP held a meeting for new post-election enquirers at the beginning of this month which saw over 100 local people attend, addressed by National Treasurer John Brayshaw and Chairman Nick Griffin.

The entire meeting was recorded by BBC Radio 4 – a fact that a rapidly produced BNP press statement used to stop in its tracks a media campaign to imply that the meeting helped to spark the Bradford riot.

In fact, of course, the whole meeting was aimed at explaining the party's view that the answer to anti-white violence and discrimination is not to take to the streets, but to join the campaign to get pro-white BNP councillors elected to put things right through the proper channels.

Everyone at the meeting agreed with this, and two local people came forward on the night to volunteer as candidates.

GROWTH IN THE BLACK COUNTRY

BNP progress in the Black Country was confirmed last month with 30 local people attending the meeting of the fast-growing branch.

First to speak was regional organiser Simon Darby, who discussed the importance of the coming council elections.

Local organiser John Salvage rallied people for activities and, after a break complete with an excellent buffet spread, guest speaker Chairman Nick Griffin spoke about the anti-white racism endemic in local councils, not least the Labour-run shambles in charge of Sandwell.

GRIFFIN IN OLDHAM

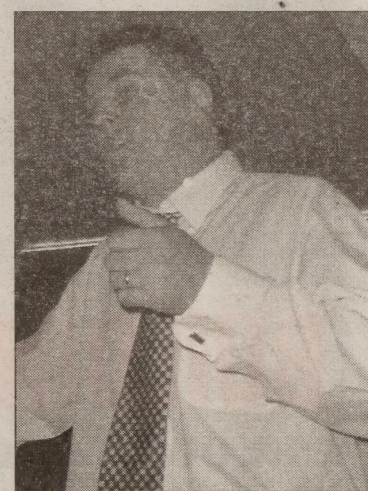

Around 50 members and supporters attended the first post-election Oldham branch meeting on the 24th of June, addressed by guest speakers Publicity Director Paul Golding and National Chairman Nick Griffin, and also local organiser Mick Treacy, who has done more than anyone to get Oldham branch off the ground.

The meeting was chaired by North West Regional organiser Chris Jackson who started off with a round up of events, and then introduced Mick Treacy, who appealed for local members to help take advantage of the massive potential for success in Oldham.

Chris then introduced Director of Publicity Paul Golding who gave an analysis of the general election results, followed by a brief explanation of the BNP's policies on other issues.

After a short break, Chris introduced National Chairman Nick Griffin, who obtained 16.4% in Oldham West. Nick spoke about the situation in Oldham, and the potential the party had in the town – provided more people would come forward to take on responsibility and help to push things forward. "Don't expect someone else to do it," he urged the audience, "if you can't be bothered to do more than attend a meeting once a month, why should anyone else?"

The election result showed that the BNP can win, so there's no excuse for being a spectator any more. It's time to join the winning team." The collection raised more than £500 for local party funds.

What we stand for

In the British National Party

- A massive expansion of Freedom and Democracy to roll back the erosion of our traditional freedoms and truly reflect the wishes of the people; the adoption of popular referenda & hi-tech direct democracy.
- The establishment of a government that puts British interests first.
- An end to immigration and the scandal of bogus asylum-seekers flooding Britain. The use of the billions now wasted in foreign aid to fund generous 'Homeward Bound' schemes to encourage immigrants to return to their lands of origin.
- British withdrawal from the European Union: trade with Europe where it suits us but no political ties, and no monetary union.
- The use of the £1.8 million per hour we at present pay the EU to fund the restoration of an effective National Health Service and proactive measures to produce a healthier population in the first place.
- British ownership and control of British industry and resources including the mass media.
- Protection of British jobs and industry by the selective exclusion of foreign manufactured goods from the British market.
- The introduction of tax incentives and other policies designed to ensure that the City finances British industry rather than foreign competitors.
- The regeneration of British farming, with the object of achieving the maximum self-sufficiency in food; also the restoration of the fishing industry by protection of our traditional fishing grounds.
- A healthy environment for a healthy people — the protection of our countryside; a ban on greenfield-site house building except in cases of genuine local need; an end to field trials of genetically modified crops.
- A crack-down on crime and tougher treatment of criminals, including the return of the death penalty for child killers and terrorists.
- A return to traditional methods of education, with stronger discipline in the classroom and an end to the 'trendy' teaching methods which have failed our children so badly.
- An alternative defence strategy based on the principle of armed neutrality; no British blood should be shed in conflicts which do not involve vital British interests. The restoration of the County Regiment system and reversal of the defence cuts which have weakened our Armed Forces and cost thousands of jobs.
- The crushing of the IRA and other terrorist groups, the termination of the Anglo-Irish agreement and the establishment of a devolved, non-sectarian parliament in Northern Ireland.
- A return to healthy moral values and policies aimed at strengthening the family and community. Tough penalties for corruption in public life.
